

Open access agreement - Pensoft Publishers

Pensoft Publishers is a publisher founded 1992 in Bulgaria. Pensoft publishes ca 60 science journals. The agreement, valid through 2026, is funded by Forte, Formas, Vetenskapsrådet and Vinnova and offers Chalmers researchers open access publishing at no cost in 57 Pensoft journals.

CC-licenses and publication types

All articles are published with a CC BY license. The agreement covers all publication types that require a publishing fee.

Workflow

Manuscripts are managed in the publisher's Arpha system.

1. When submitting your manuscript, it is important that you, as the corresponding author, use your Chalmers email address and state your Chalmers affiliation.
2. You should then select the option:
"I have a special agreement via direct contact with the journal prior to submission to receive a full or partial fee waiver for this submission"
and in the field below inform the editor:
"This paper will be covered by the National Library of Sweden institutional deposit."
3. Once the article has been accepted, you will receive a notice with information about how much of the deposit has been used for publication.
4. You will then receive a copy of the receipt.
